

2014 World Family Therapy Congress — March 5-8, 2014

Keynoters at 2014 World Family Congress to Focus on “Technology, Families, and Effective Therapy”

Three major plenary speakers, who will focus on different aspects of the conference theme of “Technology, Families, and Effective Therapy, have been announced for the International Family Therapy Associations’ forthcoming World Family Therapy Congress, scheduled for Panama City, Panama, March 5-8, 2014. Heading the list of several hundred other presenters are Gonzalo Baicgaupe, EdD; Stan Tatkin, PsyD; and Cigdem Kagitcibasi, PhD.

Gonzalo Bacigalupe, EdD, MPH Emerging Technologies, Family & Psychotherapy: Beyond Control & Toward Curiosity.

Bacigalupe describes his presentation as follows: “Information technologies are an unavoidable and often indispensable dimension of our family and community life. Families communicate and engage through the use of an evolving set of emerging technologies. The adoption of these technologies, however, tests our ability as psychotherapists and citizens to understand how families are embracing and challenged by them. In this presentation, I explore some of the challenges and critique the usual discourse about technology that changes from a nostalgic assessment of family life without them to the utopian idea that these technologies will help us to resolve quickly some difficult social dilemmas. The talk is based on a critical review of the literature, my own empirical research on the impact of technology, and clinical situations in which technology is protagonist of family difficulties and therapeutic work. Questions I intend to answer include: What are the untapped opportunities for therapeutic interventions that embrace technology in the therapy session? How do we frame our conversations about technology in ways that invite collaboration rather than diagnostic labels or the need for control?”

Stan Tatkin, PsyD Wired for Love: A Psychobiological Approach to Couples

Developer of A Psychobiological Approach to Couple Therapy® (PACT), and author of Wired for Love: How Understanding Your Partner’s Brain and Attachment Style Can Help You Defuse Conflict and Build a Secure Relationship, Tatkin will provide a brief introduction to the PACT approach to couple therapy. A bottom-up, body oriented method for working with implicit memory systems in primary attachment relationships. The presentation will focus on the importance of using somatoaffective techniques for discovering and treating problems related to attachment history, arousal dysregulation, and social-emotional deficits. examples that demonstrate methods for accessing nonverbal information implicit in microexpressions and micromovements and for effectively using that information in the therapy session will be provided.

Tatkin, a clinician, researcher, and teacher, developed the PACT® approach to couples work from a fusion of neuroscience, attachment theory, and arousal regulation for the purpose of training mental health professionals to use this method in their clinical practice and has taught the approach in several locations in the USA and internationally in Australia, Canada, Spain, and Turkey. He has a clinical practice in California, is an assistant clinical professor in the UCLA David Geffen School of Medicine, Department of Medicine, and teaches and supervises medical residents at Kaiser Permanente. His private practice, which formerly specialized in treating adolescents and adults with personality disorders, more recently has dealt with psycho-neurological theories of human relationship, and integrating principles of early mother-infant attachment with adult romantic relationships.

Pre-Congress Intensive Family Therapy Certificate Program

There will be two Pre-Congress Intensive courses on Wednesday, March 5, 2014.

1. OVERVIEW AND INTRODUCTION TO FAMILY THERAPY

• Wednesday, 5 March 2014 • 9 AM - 5 PM
Instructor: Dorothy S. Becvar, Ph.D.

This course provides a survey of the family therapy field, including its epistemological roots and both seminal and current approaches to clinical practice. Participants are introduced to a systems theoretical perspective at the levels of first-order and second-order cybernetics as well as to the distinctions between modern and postmodern orientations to therapy. In addition to consideration of the many models of family therapy, also addressed are the dynamics of families and the impact of cultural, structural, and other contextual variations. The course includes didactic instruction, large and small group discussions, video presentations, and role plays or other simulations, as all are invited to engage actively in the teaching/learning process.

Certificate: Upon completion of this all-day course, participants will receive a Certificate of Attendance signifying that they have completed a one-day Intensive Family Therapy Course approved by IFTA.

Enrollment: Register for attendance on the congress web site.

Dorothy Becvar is a Licensed Clinical Social Worker and a Licensed Marital and Family Therapist with 30 years of experience in both academia and private practice. She received both her MSW and her PhD from Saint Louis University and is currently serving as Editor of Contemporary Family Therapy: An International Journal.

She has published extensively and is the author of the books Families that Flourish: Facilitating Resilience in Clinical Practice (Norton, 2007).

With her husband, Raphael J. Becvar, she has co-authored four books: Family Therapy: A Systemic Integration (Allyn & Bacon, 7 editions), Pragmatics of Human Relationships (Geist & Russell, 1998), Hot Chocolate for a Cold Winter's Night: Essays for Relationship Development (Love Publishing, 1994), and Systems Theory and Family Therapy: A Primer (University Press of America, 1982, 1999). And she is co-editor, with William Nichols, Mary Anne Pace-Nichols and Augustus Napier, of the Handbook of Family Development and Intervention (Wiley, 2000).

Janine Roberts, PhD, and Merli López Rodríguez Systemic Therapy with Families and Children Working in the Streets in Ecuador and Mexico

Over the last twenty years, two JUCONI (Together with the Children) centers have developed and very successfully implemented a four-stage framework for working with marginalized and excluded families. They break multigenerational cycles of poverty and lack of access to education and get kids off the streets and back in school. The clinical leader from JUCONI Ecuador (Merli López Rodríguez) will explicate these four stages as well as creative strategies for engaging families in therapeutic work. Janine Roberts, who has trained therapists for both JUCONI Ecuador and JUCONI Mexico for over a decade will describe key processes in entering organizations to do trainings including: shadowing staff, delivering topics on demand, moving in and out of the role of facilitator and participant, entering into the trainings from different vantage points within an organization, and designing activities with an eye to how they will impact work relationships of staff and clients.

Dr. Janine Roberts is Professor Emerita at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, past president of AFTA (American Family Therapy Academy), & an Associate Editor for Family Process. Dr. Roberts has presented nationally and internationally for decades and has lived, worked, and traveled in more than 60 countries beginning with Kuwait in 1963. Among other awards, she has received two Fulbrights and the Distinguished Contribution to Family Therapy Theory and Practice from AFTA. She is the author of Tales and Transformations: Stories in Families and Family Therapy (Norton Press, 1994); coauthor of Rituals for Our Times: Celebrating, Healing, and Changing Our Lives and Our Relationships (Jason Aronson, 1998); and coeditor of Rituals in Families and Family Therapy (2nd edition Norton Press, 2003), as well as some sixty articles and book chapters, and a book of poems, The Body Alters (2009). Merli López Rodríguez is the clinical leader part of the JUCONI (Together with the Children) team in Ecuador that has developed and implemented a four-stage framework for working with marginalized and excluded families. Merli López will explicate stages as well as creative strategies for engaging families in therapeutic work.

Merli López Rodríguez hace parte del Equipo de Fundación Junto con los niños - JUCONI – Ecuador (www.juconi.org.ec), liderando al equipo técnico que atiende directamente a los niños, niñas y sus familias desde el 2002 hasta la actualidad. Ha participado como ponente en los congresos internacionales de JUCONI México en 2010 y 2012.

Janine Roberts, PhD, describirá procedimientos claves cuando haga entrenamientos para las organizaciones por la primera vez.

Dos participantes de la organización JUCONTI (Juntos con los Niños) han desarrollado e implementado una estructura de cuatro etapas para trabajar con una margen mínima y excluyendo familias. Merli López Rodríguez, experta líder del Ecuador, explicará las cuatro etapas y estrategias creativas para incluir familias en el trabajo terapéutico.

system and how to interpret the consequent somatic responses. The PACT methodology utilizes a bottom-up versus a top-down approach to psychotherapy focusing on very fast, often surprising interventions in order to access implicit systems as revealed in micro-expressions and micro-movements in the face and body, respectively. Attendees will learn to analyze moment-to-moment variations and shifts in affect and arousal and will learn to therapeutically stage interventions that will trigger arousal and implicit somatoaffective experience and memory. This workshop, intended for psychologists, psychiatrists, MFT/LCSWs, and other health professionals interested in romantic primary relationships.

Certificate: Upon completion of this all-day course, participants will receive a Certificate of Attendance signifying that they have completed a one-day Intensive Family Therapy Course approved by IFTA.
